

“Internet Information Sources for the Insurance Sector”

The special section on web sites of interest to the insurance sector, from a legislative and statistical point of view, included with issue 29 of this magazine has been updated and expanded.

Due to the large amount of information available on the internet it is necessary to keep information sources permanently updated.

TREBOL invites its readers to visit its website (www.mapfre.com), selecting “Services and Solutions” and then “Publications”, in order to obtain updated and expanded information on sources of information on the internet which are useful to insurance students, professionals and researchers together with information on risk management and safety.

The online version of “TREBOL” can be accessed through the menu structure “Services and Solutions” and then “Publications” where this information can be consulted in number 35.

We would also recommend accessing MAPFRE’s Documentation Centre’s website and registering free of charge in order to consult its databases and so to gain an overview of its specialised documentary materials.
